Mary Kay feels lost in life. She has always felt she lived in the shadow of her sister, and she doesn't know what she is going to do with herself. She wants more than anything to be a mother, but in order for that to happen, she has to marry.

None of the young men in town appeal to her, so she comes up with the idea to put an ad in the paper. By chance she meets a handsome young cowboy, who seems to be everything she has ever wanted, and then some.

She is swept off her feet with passion, and is certain this is the man who is going to make all of her dreams come true. After all, they are so alike in so many ways, how could they ever be anything but perfect for each other?

But when he tells her a secret that shatters her world, everything falls apart. Is she doomed to continue to live her life of misery under her sister's success? Is she going to be able to look past his dark secret and find happiness? Will she ever be a mother?
